Presidents' Messages

Dear Alumnus,

As your new president of the Alumni Association, I am very honored to serve you in this capacity. I look forward to working with you and with our capable director and her staff. Remember that we are here to serve you and welcome suggestions that you may have. You are always welcome to visit us when you can.

Although I will not have the close-up perception of the campus that Past-President Larry Cockrum, who works on the campus, has; my retrospective view is keen because School/College of the Ozarks has always been a part of my life. My mother, Dovie Wilson, and her sis-

Frieda Hornback

As would be expected, unbelievable changes have occurred on campus since I was a student. My grandchildren cannot believe that the administrative offices, all classrooms, an auditorium, with 500 seats, a gymnasium in the basement, music rooms, and library were all housed in the Green Building, when I graduate in 1947. Buildings on campus then were two dorms, the canning factory, power plant, a small cottage used as an infirmary, dining hall, a teachers' cottage where unmarried teachers lived, a tiny post office, museum, and Dr. Good's house. Neither can they believe that the student body numbered only 250, that students had mandatory study hall in the evening, assigned tables in the dining room where meals were served family style, required church every Sunday morning and evening, lights out at 9:30, and that we worked 20 hours each week including all day on Monday because we attended classes on Saturday.

...it is reassuring that even in a liberal America, College of the Ozarks has held steadfastly to its standards, mission, and value system.

ters graduated from S of O. There was never a doubt of where we would attend high school. Consequently, my sisters, Alyce (Wilson) Cooper and Eleanor (Wilson) Howell also graduated from SofO. Now two of my grandchildren, Kelsey and Ben, are attending college here.

Dear Alumnus,

It was wonderful to see all of you who joined us in celebrating our 2003 "Looking Forward to Looking Back" homecoming festivities. It seemed to come and go so quickly, and we were very grateful to be blessed with such gorgeous weather throughout the course of the weekend.

Students have now returned from a much-needed break. We kicked off the Spring 2004 semester with our traditional Welcome Week festivities including a bowling night, movie night, and a welcome back dance, which was a perfect opportunity for our new students to mingle and bond with the returning ones. The Student Senate book sale was also a big success, giving students an opportunity to buy and sell books to other students at the best prices.

Senate has big plans for this semester! We will continue having our coffeehouses, movie nights, open houses, Valentine's Dance, and the much anticipated spring formal dance. Aside from these activities, Senate will also be taking a trip to the capitol in Jefferson City. We are all very excited to see what this semester will hold. Wishing you all a Happy New Year and hope you will be able to visit us soon!

Today, there are state-of-the-art buildings for almost every discipline, a student body of 1450, nation wide recognition of the unique work-study program which allows students a debt-free education, degrees in many areas, and a campus which rivals any in the country for its beauty and setting, with The Keeter Character Center scheduled for completion by September.

But amid all of the changes, it is reassuring that even in a liberal America, College of the Ozarks has held steadfastly to its standards, mission, and value system. We can be proud of the high standards to which students are held. Academics are still stressed; chapels are still required, and students are afforded many opportunities to participate in cultural, patriotic, and vocational events as well.

Thank you to all who responded to our plea for funds to continue the restoration of the Williams Memorial Chapel, our current alumni project. As of now, we have not yet raised enough money to progress with the interior of the chapel. Please continue to support the College with your prayers and your financial resources.

Sincerely,
Frieda Hornback
Alumni Association President

Sincerely,
Hillary Bargman
Student Body President

Dear Alumnus:

Happy 2004 from College of the Ozarks. I trust your Christmas was a happy one and that the New Year has been good for you so far. I am trying to keep all of my resolutions, how about you?

My family had a wonderful holiday, although our youngest daughter was traveling outside the U.S. We missed her very much, but my two other children, their spouses, and my three grandchildren made for a lively time, as you can imagine.

Homecoming this past November was terrific, and I'm sure all of you who were able to attend the weekend's festivities would agree. We were so pleased that the weather turned out nicely—if you remember, Homecoming 2002 was a rainy day and the parade was cancelled. This year, however, the sun came out, the weather was mild, and everyone truly enjoyed the day.

Also in November, we had a special on-campus Veterans' Day tribute, then many of our faculty and staffers who are veterans marched in the Branson Veterans' Day parade as well. We were also honored to host a group of Congressional Medal of Honor recipients at our chapel this fall. The group held its annual meeting in Branson this year, and they chose Williams Memorial Chapel as the site of their yearly memorial service. Having so many heroes here at one time made it a truly special day for all of us at C of O.

We were also pleased to have former CIA Director Robert Gates speak on our campus last October. Gates is now President of Texas A&M University. His remarks were a sober reminder that America still has much to deal with when it comes to those who would want to do harm to the United States and its interests both at home and abroad.

This spring, we will welcome former Congressman J. C. Watts to campus, and we look forward to hearing the lessons this fine man has to teach us.

Best wishes to you and yours from Point Lookout, and may this year be happy and productive for you.

Sincerely,
Jerry C. Davis

ON THE COVER: At the 2003 homecoming banquet, C of O President and Honorary Alumnus, Dr. Jerry C. Davis presented alumni meritorious awards to (clockwise): Dr. Glen Cameron, Distinguished Service to College of the Ozarks; Lt. General Gary H. Hughey '65 HS, Distinguished Achievement; Ted Martin '95, Distinguished Community Service; Lea-Ann Morton '97, Distinguished Young Alumni Award. To nominate an alumnus, complete and mail the award nomination form on page 9.

Dear Alumnus,

Since I will graduate in May, this is my last letter as the Student Alumni Association President. I am looking forward to joining you as an alumna of C of O.

It's the beginning of a new year, and SAA is looking forward to the year 2004 and all the activities that come with it.

We had many activities last semester, and the most exciting part of the semester was surely Homecoming. The weather was great, SAA's banner placed third, our Homecoming Queen Candidate was third attendant, and we raised over $50 with our cotton candy booth! Operation Christmas Child was a blessing too. In November, we put together over 70 Christmas boxes for Franklin Graham's Samaritan's Purse Ministry, bringing our total in five years to over 600! We continued our annual Dollar Drive, donating over $200 to the local Salvation Army. SAA also organized another book drive this year for National Make-A-Difference Day, collecting and donating several books to the Boys and Girls Club in Branson.

We have plans for another great semester. With your help, this year's Phonathon is going to be great. We believe that we can count on you to reach, or even break, last year's record of over $25,000. The Alumni Scholarship Phonathon will be March 1-4; you should be getting your reminder card in the mail in February. SAA members always do a fantastic job each year contacting alumni to pledge to the Alumni Scholarship Endowment Fund. Let's make 2004 a record-breaking year! Thank you for supporting your alma mater!

May God bless you,
Amy Evans
SAA President

Advancement Notes

Rodney Arnold '91

immediately should something happen to you.

Perhaps you don't need all that coverage today. You have other investments and benefits now that will yield a good income for your family after your lifetime. Yet, you still have those policies gathering dust.

If you're thinking about making a gift to our alma mater, your life insurance could be a sensible way to make such a gift. You might consider these benefits:

You receive a tax deduction. By naming us as beneficiary and assigning ownership of the policy to us, you can get a valuable income tax deduction.

Your income isn't cut. A gift of an insurance policy will not reduce your current income.

Your cash flow may increase. If you stop paying the premiums, you'll enjoy an increase in available cash. Or, if you continue to pay the premiums on a policy you give to us, you may claim the premium amount as an annual tax deduction.

Your gift is easily arranged. You can transfer ownership of an insurance policy to us without the legal expense or having to prepare a will or amendment to your estate plan.

You are giving us helpful options. If the policy has a cash surrender value, we may wish to cash in or convert it to a paid-up policy.

When you no longer need the protection of your life insurance, your charitable gift to us will strengthen our work and save you money on taxes. When you contribute a policy where premiums remain to be paid, your charitable deduction is generally close to its cash surrender value, actually a bit more. When you contribute a paid-up policy, your deduction is generally what it would cost to replace the policy at your age and state of health at the time of your gift. Assuming you itemize your deductions, your gift is deductible up to 50 percent of your adjusted gross income with five additional years to utilize any remaining deductions.

Maybe you still need your life insurance for the future financial security of your family. If so, consider us as the contingent beneficiary of your insurance.

Your life insurance is probably more valuable than ever. By making a gift of insurance to College of the Ozarks now, you can save on taxes and possibly increase your income. Most importantly, however, you will be supporting our unique educational mission and helping other students trying to help themselves.

Should you have any questions or would like additional information on donating a life insurance policy, please complete and return the request form. I will be pleased to send some information to you.

Spotlight on Alumni

Michael P. Smith '93

Kansas City, MO— In recognition of his in-depth understanding and service to technology clients in Kansas City, Michael Smith has been promoted to General Manager for the Quilogy/Kansas City office.

A Quilogy employee since 1998, Smith has continually proved his expertise as a consultant and leader moving through the ranks from Senior Consultant to Managing Consultant and Acting General Manager before being named General Manager this month.

Quilogy President & CEO Randy Schilling states, "Under Michael's guidance as Acting General Manager since mid-March, the Kansas City office has achieved consistent profitability. He has led over 20 major consulting projects while helping Quilogy reaffirm its position as a strong, stable professional-services firm that's been serving clients in Kansas City since 1994. He brings a renewed emphasis on business development and a sincere desire to assist a wide variety of firms with meeting their business objectives through the innovative use of emerging technologies.

We're very excited to have Michael in this senior leadership position with Quilogy and look forward to growing our presence in Kansas City."

Smith adds, "Technology is an integral part of every business and Quilogy's reputation for developing high-value business and technical solutions that meet demonstrable business needs makes us a leader in this industry. Quilogy focuses on verticals such as financial services, healthcare, manufacturing and the public-sector through its nine national practices that include business, technical, creative and hosting services."

He continues, "Another significant part of our business is training and mentoring developers and IT professionals through our extensive technical training programs so that they can reap the greatest benefits from their investments in technology."

Smith's background includes infrastructure, database development, and administration, and teaching credentials. He holds Microsoft Certified Systems Engineer (MCSE), Microsoft Certified Database Administrator (MCDBA), Microsoft Certified Systems Administrator (MCSA), Microsoft Certified Professional (MCP) certifications and is a Microsoft Certified Trainer. Before joining Quilogy, Smith was a systems administrator for a local insurance agency. Michael is a 1989 graduate of Hartville High School in Hartville, MO and a 1993 graduate of the College of the Ozarks.

Founded in 1992, Quilogy empowers over 300 clients annually to solve business problems through the innovative use of emerging technologies. Headquartered in St. Charles, Missouri, Quilogy has 14 offices for the nationwide delivery of consulting services and training. With a special focus on healthcare, manufacturing, financial services and the public sector, Quilogy solutions include: Connected Customer (CRM); Business Operations & Productivity; Portals & Collaboration; Business Intelligence; Integration; Developer & IT Pro; Interactive, Managed Hosting; and Technical Training.

Tony Tost '98 Receives 2003 Walt Whitman Award

New York, May 21, 2003—The Academy of American Poets is pleased to announce that Tony Tost has won the 2003 Walt Whitman Award for his first book-length collection of poems, Invisible Bride, which will be published by Louisiana State University Press in spring 2004. The winning manuscript was chosen by C. D. Wright from over 1400 entries in an open competition. The Academy of American Poets has awarded Mr. Tost a $5,000 cash prize and will purchase copies of his book for distribution to its members. He will also receive a one-month residency at the Vermont Studio Center.

Tony Tost was born in Springfield, MO in 1975 and raised in Enumclaw, Washington. He is a graduate of Green River Community College in Auburn, WA and College of the Ozarks. He has recently graduated with an MFA from University of Arkansas. His poems have appeared in the literary journals: Fence, Field, Spinning Jenny, Typo, Quarter After Eight, Goodfoot, Localist, can we have our ball back?, and others. He currently resides in Fayetteville, Arkansas.

The Walt Whitman Award, established in 1975, makes possible the publication of a poet's first full-length collection. The competion is judged by a distinguished poet, and the winning manuscript is published by a prominent literary publishing house.

On selecting Tony's book for the Walt Whitman Award, author C. D. Wright wrote: "The Invisible Bride is a strange and penetrating book. Questing and questioning, full of wonder and doubt. . . a record of what is not remembered and what may have never happened. Composed of six linking chapters, poems are set into them, none of which are in line except as an unscored melody. . . It reads as a very attentive, soulful dream. The reader may require special binoculars. . . beautifully executed."

The Story of the Williams Chapel

Gaye Newman Lisby '83

"It just didn't seem churchy . . . inspirational," fretted M. Graham Clark, Jr., about the Green Auditorium in which students at the School of the Ozarks attended weekly chapel. So the newly-appointed school president set about to build a Gothic-style chapel in the middle of a private Ozark high school near Branson, Mo. The year was 1956.

Some say that the "school's administration envisioned it;" others say that "it was the plan all along." Regardless, it was Clark who brought this vision to reality.

"I had the idea that since the Presbyterian Church had started the school that it would be really appropriate and proper and right by many accounts that they go ahead and build a place of worship," recounted Clark. "I asked Dr. Janie McGaughey, secretary of the Board of Women's Work to visit and speak on the campus." The strategy was to give their annual birthday offering for the cause of building the chapel. (The offering was in the hundreds of thousands of dollars.)

"Dr. McGaughey thought it was a splendid idea and proposed it to her board and they approved it," Clark said. Unfortunately, the Stewardship and Budget Committee of the General Assembly disagreed and turned away the chapel proposal.

Years earlier, Clark and his wife, Elizabeth, had traveled abroad throughout Europe and had fallen in love with the splendor of the Gothic chapels and their bejeweled stained glass windows. "The vision, goal, desire, whatever you want to call it was ever-present in my mind," said Clark "I hadn't given up."

A few weeks later, the door opened for an exciting contribution. Clark was about to speak in St. Joseph, Mo., at the First Presbyterian Church when a telegram was delivered advising the busy man that Jacob Lashley wanted to be met at the airport in Springfield, Mo., the next morning. Following the meeting, Clark drove through the night back to the campus. The next morning, weary and sleepless, he met the prominent St. Louis attorney who proved to be president of the American Bar Association.¹

Lashley also proved to be an elder in his Presbyterian church and said he had known of the private school for years. He shared that a friend desired to make a substantial contribution to the school and wanted to know what project might be offered him.

"I got excited and told him I thought God had sent him because of the chapel," Clark said. He asked the amount Lashley's friend wanted to give. Unwittingly, Lashley named to the exact dollar what the school had received as an estimate to build the chapel.

Lashley was suspicious and inquired, "If I had named another figure would there be another estimate in that desk drawer?" He rifled through Clark's desk and finding no other estimate, called his friend, former Missouri Senator George Williams.

Clark remembered Lashley calling the senator to say, "Clark says our coming is providential and that we've been sent, and he is very enthusiastic about the idea of a gift. I recommend that we go forward with it. He wants to build a chapel and says he'll put your name on it. There's a bell tower to be built by an anonymous donor and I'd say we ought to do it!"²

The dream was dreamt, the funds were in place and Clark readied the school's construction department for the new project. However, a near-disaster threatened to paralyze the plan again.

Clark was in Washington, D.C., speaking at a Rotary luncheon when he received a panicked message that Lashley wanted him in St. Louis. The contribution was being contested by Williams' son. Clark hurried back to St. Louis to meet with Lashley, Williams and his son Howard to discuss the contribution. Howard felt too much money was being taken out of his father's estate at one time and desired the contribution to be spread out over several years.

"God leads you in what to say sometime," marveled Clark. "I'm no tax expert but I suggested that if Williams' estate would guarantee it, we could borrow the money and the estate could pay it back over a period of time." Both father and son agreed to guarantee the funding for the addition to the School of the Ozarks.

The National Council of Churches had reported that Edward Jansson of Chicago was the nation's best authority on Gothic architecture. Clark convinced the architect to donate plans for a chapel he had designed, but never built. The structure would seat just over 1,000. There were less than 300 members of the entire student body when construction began.

"Some thought it was crazy to build it so large," said Clark. Even Dr. Robert M. Good, President Emeritus and Chairman of the Board, and others suggested the size might be an overkill. "I didn't resent that," said Clark. "Dr. Good had carried this school on his bare back during the hard years of the depression, trying to feed the students, educate them. I know it seemed much too lavish at the time, but I knew our student body would grow and I wanted to be ready for that time." Today, the student body numbers more than 1,500.

The board of trustees wasn't totally confident in the skills of campus construction staff and students laborers and asked that William Johnson of Springfield, Mo., supervise the program. Ralph Bates supervised cutting the "cotton-rock" from the school's quarry, which forms the chapel exterior. Stonemasons Hardy (Slim) Wyman, Elwood Wyman, Uncle Jimmy Wheeler, Leo Bush, "Pop" Collins and Silas Jones laid the stone in a broken Ashler pattern.

Later, when Johnson returned to Springfield, Clark turned to Slim Wyman to move the work forward. Wyman was born and raised near Forsyth and had never seen, let alone worked on such an ornate building. How could he rise to the task? "Dr. Clark 'a told me to do it and I done it," said Wyman with a simple shrug of his shoulders.

Silas Jones, a Ridgedale native, well remembers working on the chapel. "I thought it was mighty, mighty pretty. I hadn't seen anything like it," he chuckled. "Of course, I hadn't ever gone very far from home." He pointed proudly to the four stones atop the bell tower and said, "I laid three of them myself."

Student labor and local craftsmanship were combined in the school's furniture factory to create the ornate woodwork. The woodwork of native white oak was seasoned, bleached and shaped into the desired pieces; smoothed and coated with no pigment added.³ For months a sample pew stood in Clark's office and all visitors - tall, short, fat or thin - were asked to try it. When dimensions that suited everyone were found, a pattern was made for the new pews.⁴

Clark also captured the interest of stained glass artisans Hilgart and Gianinni in Chicago. Together the three tackled the challenge of creating works of art with bits of glass imported from Austria. Clark admits his ideas were "not one bit original" but delights in the Biblical meaning behind the windows he helped bring into the light.

Each stained glass segment glows with jewel-like brilliance - amethyst, topaz, emerald and ruby. The morning sun colors the sanctuary with rich purples and reds through the window above the chancel, known as the Sacrament Window. In the afternoon, the great window in the west above the entrance door glows like a sunset.⁵

On the exciting day when the windows were delivered to the campus, Slim Wyman remembered, "We thought they were mighty pretty." But, alas, the installation instructions were provided in German! Clark scrambled to find someone to read the instructions. "Then our boys, with Slim's supervision, placed those windows without an error," he proclaimed.

In his mind, 86-year-old Clark can still clearly see the windows. He recited, "On the north wall it is all the Old Testament, the south wall is all New Testament. The transept on the north side is the Creation and the transept on the south side is mostly the Book of Revelation. To the east is Christ with the cup and the four evangelists, Matthew, Mark, Luke and John surrounding him." It is here that Clark wanted the "magnificent Tiffany blues to catch the light of the rising sun."

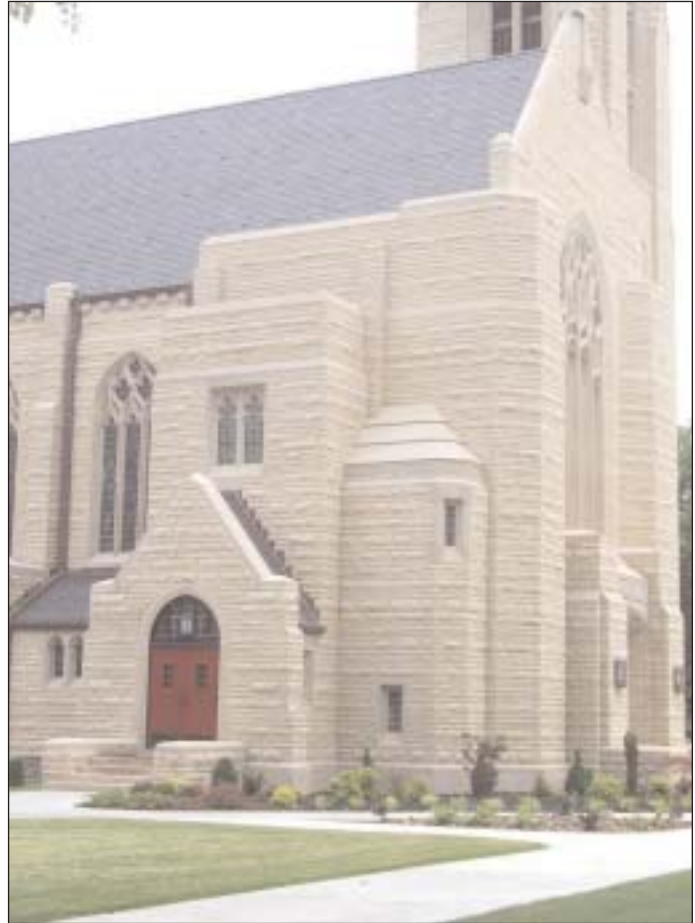

The sermon that emanates from the windows changed the life of at least one young student on the campus. "One of the orneriest lads in this place was working on installing one of the windows," said Clark. "He got so interested in what it meant that he got to reading his Bible and found Christ his Savior. He was baptized and became a wonderful Christian man."

From the hands of teenaged high school boys and the work-worn hands of Ozarks craftsmen, nourished by the vision of M. Graham Clark, and funded by generous hearts, the chapel came to life. The bell tower also grew rapidly and on May 1, 1958, the bells chimed across the hills to announce the completion of the Williams Chapel and Hyer Bell Tower and to beckon the campus and community to its dedication.

A sense of elation and completion settled over the crowd as the dedication ceremony began. "The building was truly beyond our imaginations," said long-tome business professor Dr. Beulah Winfrey. Wyman marveled, "I was just proud to do the work." M. Graham Clark, quiet and still, said, "You can't imagine how much of this place is an answer to prayer."

Chapel Facts

1. In 1906, The School of the Ozarks was formed as an eighth through 12th grade school for Ozark children "found worthy but without sufficient means to get a Christian education." Students are assigned word stations throughout the campus and earn their room, board and tuition.
2. In 1956, the junior college program was started. In 1966, the junior college became a four-year, liberal arts college.
3. The chapel is 150 feet long and 80 feet wide with a vaulted ceiling of 80 feet. The bell tower extends 120 feet into the air.
4. Funding for the woodwork was furnished by a Baptist preacher and his deacon; the chapel was funded by an Episcopalian and the bell tower was funded by a Methodist to realize a dream by a Presbyterian.
5. Ninety-six tubular cast bells weigh a total of 55,000 pounds and comprise three sets of 32 bells each. The largest bell is 12 feet long and hangs 70 feet above the ground.
6. There are 21 stained glass windows in the Williams Chapel.

Gaye Lisby graduated in 1983 with degrees in English Education and Psychology. Since that time she and her husband Steve, (1985) have also trained to be missionaries and recently have been ordained to the ministry. In December, Gaye completed a seven year research project which culminated in a book entitled, The Spiritual History of the Land of the Osage and Branson, which is now available through Lion of Judah Ministries, Inc. 190 Mary Lane, Kirbyville, MO 65679. Gaye and Steve have four children; Jacob, 19; Bethany, 18; Sarah, 17; and Jessie, 15.

Scholarship Recipient Has Memorable Summer

Emily Sipes, Class of 2004

Last summer was a wonderful summer! Due to the generosity and thoughtfulness of many College of the Ozarks alumni, I was able to work and gain many valuable experiences related to my educational degree and chosen vocation of Theatre Performance.

In May, I was a part of a drama team (Testament) that performed before an audience of 250. The Christian witness drama we performed was based on our College of the Ozarks production "Can I Get a Witness".

Singing with the Victory Tabernacle Worship Team of Middletown, Connecticut, on six separate occasions was truly a blessing for me. The vocalists and instrumentalists comprising the team serve a congregation of four hundred plus.

I also worked as a supervisor for a not-for-profit coffee bar (Jehovah Java) that supports the church's youth ministry. I got to work with some very special young people and my supervisor nametag was pretty awesome too.

My College of the Ozarks experience with Bible study groups helped prepare me to lead a women's Bible study. This was probably my most rewarding experience of the entire summer. The girls and I became close over shared devotions and pizza.

Finally, the Coffeehouse's long and arduous rehearsals (well instilled by C of O's professors Mr. and Mrs. Mark Young) led to an exciting summer finale. Before a standing room only crowd, I sang six numbers, two of which were original. The highlight came after the last number when the lead guitarist knelt and proposed to me.

This has been a wonderful summer! Thank you to all alumni who have ever given or will ever contribute to the Alumni Scholarship Endowment Fund. Without the Scholarship, I would not have had this opportunity.

Williams Memorial Chapel Restoration Alumni Four-Year Campaign

Our goal is $2,000,000!

To reach this goal we need the following...

- | | |
|--|-----------|
| • 25 Chapel Sponsors at $10,000 ($208.33/month) in four years | $250,000 |
| • 50 Chapel Founders at $5,000 ($104.16/month) in four years | 250,000 |
| • 700 Chapel Patron/Benefactors at $1,000 in four years ($20.83/month) | 700,000 |
| • 2,000 Chapel Forsythe Fellows at $100 each year ($8.33/month) | 800,000 |

This is possible with your help—what can you give? We need your commitment and pledge to make this, our greatest ever, campaign successful! All gifts may be given online at cofo.edu (Go to Gift Programs on the Alumni Association webpage.)

Yes, I will help! This is my pledge:

Chapter News

California Chapter

The Central California Alumni Chapter's latest meeting was held on November 8, 2003, at Keefer's Restaurant in King City. Some members were out of the area, so no formal business was conducted.

Along with the death of one our members, illnesses have required resignations of others, and our membership and attendance have declined somewhat. President Mault suggested, therefore, that we might get together informally for a while to keep in touch with each other and the College.

We hope other chapters are enjoying good attendance and wish you all much success!

OKC Chapter Meeting

The Oklahoma City Area Chapter of the School/College of the Ozarks Alumni Association met on November 20, 2003, in Oklahoma City. Seven (7) members and associate members were present: Dixie Walker, Alice Fuller, Ilene and Chuck Gauntlett, Viviam Crowder, Bonnie and Carl Skrapka.

President Ilene Gauntlett called the meeting to order.

Minutes for the previous meeting were read. Motion was made by Vivian Crowder, and seconded by Bonnie Skrapka, to accept the minutes as read. Motion carried.

Treasurer, Tylene Robertson, sent a report showing that the chapter has on deposit, $350.46. Motion was made by Dixie Walker, seconded by Vivian Crowder, to accept the treasurer's report. Motion carried.

Treasurer, Tylene Robertson, submitted her resignation via letter, which was read. Dixie Walker moved to accept the resignation, seconded by Vivian Crowder. Motion carried.

Nominations were called for treasurer of the chapter. Bonnie Skrapka nominated Alice Fuller, seconded by Vivian Crowder. A vote of members present was called; the vote was unanimous.

The December meeting will be held December 13, at the Golden Corral restaurant, on North May in Oklahoma City.

President Ilene announced there would be no fundraiser for the chapter this year.

Motion to adjourn was made by Bonnie Skrapka, Seconded by Dixie Walker. Motion carried.

Springfield Chapter Meeting

Our August 23, 2003 meeting/potluck dinner was held at the home of Bill and Eleanor Howell. In attendance were 22 members. Frieda Hornback gave the blessing and after much food and conversation, our meeting was called to order by President Alyce Cooper. After introductions, the minutes from the August 2002 meeting were approved with corrections (the February 2003 meeting was cancelled due to bad weather).

In absence of June Meyer, treasurer, Frieda Hornback gave the treasurer's report. It was approved that we would submit our second installment of $250 to the Chapel Restoration Fund.

A report from the Executive Committee (Frieda Hornback and Richard Miller) brought us all up to speed on campus activities - namely updates on construction projects and Homecoming 2003.

Due to weather conditions, vacations, and other activities during the early spring and late summer, it was requested that the dates of the meetings be changed. After much discussion and voting, the Springfield Chapter has new meeting dates: the second Saturday in September and the first Monday in April.

Our next meeting will be held at the Heritage Cafeteria in Springfield Monday April 5, 2004, at 5:30 pm. All are welcome to attend!

Meeting was adjourned at 7:30 pm.

Alan Stolzer '82 is the Associate Dean at Saint Louis University, Parks College of Engineering and Aviation, and completed his doctorate in August of 2002. He received his Ph.D. from Indiana State University in the field of Technology Management with an emphasis in Quality Systems. Alan's dissertation focused on fuel consumption modeling of a transport category aircraft: A Flight Operations Quality Assurance (FOQA) analysis. Processing data downloaded from aircraft computers of airliners on routes flown, Alan's program shows if the quantity of fuel used was inside or outside of normal operations parameters. This newly developed model can be used by the airline to operate their Boeing 757 fleet more efficiently and to give technicians an indication when further engine maintenance analysis is required.
